2-euro commemorative coins

Since 1.1.2004, every country in the eurozone is entitled to issue a 2-euro commemorative coin each year where the national side will differ from the usual design. According to the wishes of the European Commission, a tribute can only be paid to significant personalities or events as these coins are circulated throughout the entire eurozone. Only a certain number of these commemorative coins are issued in order to ensure that they only make up a small percentage of the coins in circulation.

The 2-euro commemorative coins issued in all eurozone countries, such as “50 Years of The Treaty of Rome” and “10 Years of Economic and Monetary Union” are issued in addition to the aforementioned right.

Another joint 2-euro issue will commemorate the euro’s 10th anniversary in 2012. A coin with a common motif and national inscription appearing in the respective national language will appear in 17 eurozone countries. Germany will issue the “Bavaria coin” as part of the federal states range in 2012.

Coin boxes and cases

Is there a better way of presenting your coins?

LIGHTHOUSE features almost 140 coin drawers in different colours, sizes and divisions, ranging from the true classic, such as the "MB coin drawers" with an extensive range of different divisions and matching cases, to the elegant "LIGNUM coin drawers" in a mahogany look, down to the "SMART coin drawers" space miracle, which fits into all the latest safe deposit boxes.

You can gradually add to these systems when and as you like, since they can be stacked and are equipped with velour inserts.

LIGHTHOUSE offers you attractive designs combined with well thought-out functions and ideal protection for your collection.

Our collectors' tip:

For permanently sparkling coins take a look at our tried and tested cleaning baths. These are available for gold, silver and copper coins, as well as a universal coin cleaner (see page 81).

P.S.

If you require a particular article which is no longer featured in our list, we will do our utmost to accommodate your request - simply call us.

“Slabs”

Storage of slabs (certified coin holders)

Many American coin collectors have their coins certified by independent verification services such as the NGC*, PCGS* or ANACS*. In addition to authenticity, the examined coin's standard of preservation is also established. A special feature of this grading process is the subsequent sealing of the coin inside a special square coin capsule (a "slab"). In addition to the examined coin, the "slab" also contains the certification information. The special construction of the "slab" makes it impossible for the capsule to be opened again without it being destroyed. To protect against forgery, the capsule has various additional security features, such as a hologram or a watermark. The certification is registered with the institute responsible and can be looked up online by its identification number.
